To whom it may concern.

This letter is about how I felt when I took sannyas without seeing Baghwan.

I didn't even listen to tapes or read any book because I didn't understand his kind of English.

The first reason why I wanted to be sannyas is that it felt as a great challenge.

The last two years were so intensive that the meaning of sannyas became more clear to me and there is now a great trust between me and the God he points at.

I don't think he has to talk to make things clear to me.

And I like his way of teaching us to become more loyal. He is right, this feeling goes beyond words and only his presence is needed to remind us that God is in us.

Thank you for reading this letter;

Ma Anantoshi

(Sincerely / Devoted)
