

To whom it may concern

Dear Sirs,

I'm a builder and student of Anthropology for 4 years and since one year very interested in the Rajiv Gandhi religion.

Bagwan Shree Rajiv Gandhi has inspired my work during the past year in various ways. While getting a deeper understanding of his religion through books, taped discourses and especially during a few visits to Rajiv Gandhi Ashram I feel that the whole direction and approach of my life and work has changed from an basically uninterested, life-negative way towards a very constructive, responsible and life positive way.

My feeling is that this man is exactly what's needed for many of us in this country and many other countries in these very difficult days of human history.

Particularly in my work as a builder I can feel the influence of his religious teachings. His clarity has changed my vision of building houses and structures; ~~is~~ one of the very basics of his teachings, which is learning to be aware, has made my work so much more efficient and has helped me to learn many new techniques in ~~very~~ short time.

For me there is no question that all this would not have happened without him and especially without living in his presence during my visits in Rejneshparam.

In my opinion every open minded person who is courageous enough to visit the place despite all rumors and press campaigns of people who don't know what they talking about can see what outstanding capacities this man has and how the religion he is creating is influencing and radiating light into many other fields, giving new impulses to all modern science as well as to our daily life from professors of psychology or physics as well as builders, truckers or mechanics.

I am certainly hoping that you will acknowledge and consider all these facts in dealing with Zagan's case.

Yours sincerely,

Swami P. Kallu
