To whom it may concern :

I'm an Italian teacher and I got my degree at "Università degli Studi di Urbino" on June 21st 1980.

I've always been interested in studying the past and present socio-cultural and spiritual movements which grew and developed all over the world.

Actually my thesis at the University was a deep and careful research about some experiments of working communes during 17th and 18th century in Europe based on a spiritual and democratic way of daily life.

Once I happened to know Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh and his new experiment of life he leads with his disciples in Rajneeshpuram, I felt the importance of such a Master like Bhagwan for the development of human conscience and knowledge on one side and of anti-neurotic working activity on the other side.

Besides the way a disciple joins the community in Rajneeshpuram is absolutely free, as he is totally involved in all the affairs of the family, still he always remains an individual.

This possibility of combining the inner growth of the individual with the general development of the commune which happens around Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh is the essence of all spiritual teachings down through the ages.

This is the right moment to make such experiment spread all over the world and Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh is the right Master to carry on this reality.

Yours sincerely
