To whom it may concern

Having been at Rajeeshipusam, Ok last year and again this year for the religious festival I want to express the amazement about what I saw happening around Bhagwan Shree Rajeesh and what I experienced myself.

Simply Bhagwan's being here has started changing a dead desert waste-land turning into a thriving oasis of life, of green. And this is only a metaphor for what is happening inside ourselves. How much richer we can be inside, how much more alive and how much more happy.

I am a free-lancer graphic-designer and photographer. I have studied at High Schools for Arts and Sciences and universities in Europe and have a long experience in the fields of graphic-design and photography. I have a diploma in graphic-design and have been working for German and Austrian television, for companies as Mercedes-Benz, Luft Hansa, German General Post Office and other important national companies.

After coming in contact with Bhagwan the whole quality of my work changed. It seems to me now, as if I was just a well educated high qualified technician doing my work, without any life or concern for a human being in it.

I read a lot of Bhagwan's books and this gave me a whole new idea, what life can be like. His unique way of looking at things, making the very ordinary in a way very special, involving so many new different new aspects made my whole way of thinking, working, living different. It was as if I started life afresh. My whole approach to life, to work, to people changed. I started caring for the human, started working with love.

And this is exactly what I have found here in Bhagwan's presence. I see people working here with incredible love and care for whatever they do. This is what Bhagwan inspires everybody in. His eloquent silence communicates even more than the millions of words he has ever spoken. I felt, that sitting with him in Silence the essence of whatever He was teaching really comes alive. Alive to be seen in the City of Rajneeshpuram, to be seen in His friends and their lives.

Any country would miss an incredible opportunity to not give leave to a man of such outstanding abilities. Bhagwan, as nobody else I have ever come across in my whole life is able to show ways, to indicate possibilities, to give assistance.

This is a rare chance to discover something incredibly valuable NOW, rather than missing and discovering later, that we missed again, as so often before in history.

It's a part of America's spirit to assimilate outstanding ideas, to remain open for the new and NOW is the time to prove that this spirit is still alive.

Sincerely

Sw. Dhyana Michael
