

July 14, 1983

Kathleen W. Kelly R.N.B.S. MS
Assistant Professor
University of Massachusetts
at Amhurst
Department of Nursing

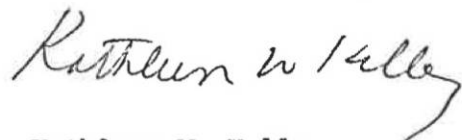

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I am employed as an assistant professor in the department of nursing at the University of Massachusetts at Amhurst. I am a graduate of Columbia University B.S. 1968, University of Connecticut MS 1974. I am presently a doctoral candidate in education Ph.D expected 1984. I am a member of sigma theta tau (national nursing honor society) phi beta kappa and pi lambda theta (national education honorary societies). I have taught in Universities at the Graduate and Undergraduate levels since 1974.

In my doctoral studies I had a concentration in the areas of history and philosophy of education. I am quite familiar with the great educators of the world and their works. In 1981 I started reading the religious works of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh. He impressed me as a man of superior intelligence and insight. He has much to say about how to educate human beings to be loving, creative, positive forces in the world. His vision is complemented by practical ideas of how to go about educating people in a humane way.

I have incorporated his ideas into my philosophy of teaching. As a result, I feel I have experienced a great deal of success in my work with students and clients in the health field.

Sincerely,

Kathleen W. Kelly